

AUSTRALIAN FINCH SOCIETY

PRIVACY POLICY

When you become a member of the Australian Finch Society we need to keep some of your personal information. This will include your name, postal address, preferred telephone number and email address. We also store show results and breeding records that you have sent us.

- We will not keep any credit card details on file.
- We will not share any of your personal details with any third party for marketing purposes without collecting your explicit consent.
- We will not publish your details on a members list unless you provide written consent to the membership secretary.
- Breeding results will be published in the Grassfinch magazine on a species only basis unless you consent otherwise.
- We do not use your personal information for any automated decision-making or profiling.
- It is possible that we might have to disclose this information for legal purposes.
- The legal basis for our holding and processing your personal information is that we have a contractual agreement with you. As part of this agreement, we will share with you birdkeeping-related information, offers and events that may be of interest.
- If you cease to be a member of this society, we will retain your personal information for the purpose of contacting you for a period of one year. After this point we will either delete your information or keep it because you have asked us to.
- Members aged of 16 or under MUST obtain their parent/guardian's permission before providing us with their personal information.

This policy will be published in the Grassfinch Magazine, be available to view on the Australian Finch Society website and a copy will be sent to all new members.
